

What Part Journalists Play Pulitzer Prize winning reporter Lowell Bergman heads our investigation of international bribery. In this clip, he talks about the challenges of investigating bribery, and how, for the first time, these large cases are providing a documented path of how corruption works. \(more >>\)

View all Stories

April 2009 >>, March 2009 >>, February 2009 >>

ABOUT THIS SITE
THE BUSINESS OF BRIBES

FRONTLINE and FRONTLINE/World unfolds an online investigation of international bribery. Covering a practice estimated at $1 trillion worldwide, the team is reporting on some of the largest bribery cases in corporate history. The ongoing investigation is also part of a FRONTLINE documentary, Black Money, which aired April 7th, 2009.

Related Top Stories

- At Siemens, Bribery Was Just a Line Item
- The Victims of Corruption -- The human cost of bribery in the developing world
- Portrait of a Whistleblower

Thanks to our Funders

Major funding for The Business of Bribes web site comes from Shell, The John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation, The Nathan Cummings Foundation, The William and Flora Hewlett Foundation and The Reva and David Logan Foundation. Additional funding provided by the Fund for Investigative Journalism.

Nigeria: The Hidden Cost of Corruption
It is no coincidence that one of the world's most corrupt places is also one of its most polluted -- and one that, despite a wealth of oil and natural gas, can barely feed itself. Here, we examine the effects of bribery in Nigeria. READ MORE >>

Spotlight: Nigerian Corruption
April 23, 2009
One of the most resource rich countries in the world, Nigeria remains riddled with poverty and provides a glaring example of how a country's corrupted leadership can turn its citizens into victims. READ MORE >>

More on the Al-Yamamah Arms Deal
April 7, 2009
In 1985, the British and Saudi governments began negotiations on an unprecedented oil-for-arms contract that would last over 20 years and amount to more than $80 billion. READ MORE >>

Extended Interview With Louis Freeh

Corruption in the Crosshairs

- E-MAIL THIS PAGE
- SUBMIT TO
- del.icio.us
 - Digg
 - reddit
 - StumbleUpon
 - Slashdot
 - Facebook

- ELSEWHERE ON FRONTLINE
- Ten Trillion and Counting
- MOST WATCHED VIDEO THIS WEEK
- + Italy: Taking on the Mafia
 - + Afghanistan: A Hard Fight
 - + Jamaica: The Alpha Boys
 - + Bangladesh: The Mystery of a Mutiny
 - + Lowell Bergman Investigates...
- MORE VIDEO >>

April 7, 2009

Louis Freeh was interviewed by Lowell Bergman for the FRONTLINE film Black Money, which details the allegations of bribery leveled at BAE Systems and the Prince. This video contains extended excerpts from that interview -- the first time anyone has spoken publicly on behalf of Prince Bandar about these allegations. READ MORE »

April 7, 2009

An interactive timeline details the history of international anti-bribery legislation, from the revelations over Watergate to the recent increase in enforcement. READ MORE »

JOIN THE CONVERSATION

"Sickening. How can the Justice Department allow such things? This is only the tip of a giant iceberg. BAE is not alone. Why spend time investigating something like this when nothing will be done about it? It's business as usual and the collective hands of the USA are tied." READ MORE »

Bill Pittman - Chesapeake, VA

"Was anyone else's brain about to explode when they saw the former Head of the FBI now defending international criminals FROM THE FBI? Is this not a very clear example of what is wrong with the system?" READ MORE »

Gregory Kibitz - Rockland, ME

ARCHIVES

BY REGION

BY DATE

BY THEME

HOME • STORIES • REACT • WATCH • ABOUT • EDUCATORS • DISPATCHES • NEWSLETTER • CONTACT US • FRONTLINE

Privacy Policy • © 2002-2009 WGBH. All Rights Reserved.