DEKALB brand seed has been known for bringing the power of science to the advancement of seed since 1912, when it was first introduced as a farmer co-operative in Dekalb, Illinois. The first DEKALB brand hybrid corn seed was sold in 1934. Two years later, the famous "winged ear" logo was introduced.

This kind of heritage means that growers expect a lot from DEKALB. They expect seed that delivers high yields and profitability. Through the generations, we have learned that the only way to meet those expectations is to rely on science for continued - and continuous — improvement.

With more resources than ever dedicated to research and development, the DEKALB brand continues to provide improved corn, soybean and canola varieties to the marketplace, with more technologically features for today's farmer.
