Resources Overview

From newsletters, to peer-reviewed articles to blogs, the Sierra Institute is a virtual library for information related to rural development, sustainable forestry, watershed management and community health.

A guide to our library:

ARCHIVES: All meeting documents, including agendas and minutes, old press clippings, and reports older than five years old are kept here.

BLOGS: Program staff have blogged about Lake Almanor and how to get health to rural communities.

BOOKS: Bibliography of staff and others.

NEWSLETTERS: This holds all our current and previously published newsletters

RESEARCH REPORTS: All reports either cited by, or used in projects - as well as staff reports are kept here or in Archives for reports prior to 2008.
