

WATCH VIDEO

SHARE/E-MAIL

SEARCH FRONTLINE

CARBON WATCH

TRACKING THE NEW CURRENCIES OF GLOBAL WARMING

A JOINT PROJECT
WITH THECENTER FOR INVESTIGATIVE REPORTING

WATCH VIDEO » In a series of short interview clips, investigative reporter Mark Schapiro will be explaining some of the complexities of this new carbon economy and what is at stake. Up first: What exactly is the international carbon market? READ MORE »

Related Resources & Links

The Nature Conservancy

United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change

Brazil's Society for Wildlife Research and Environmental Education \(SPVS\)

Carbon Offsets Daily

Deforestation projects highly desirable for carbon offsets finds survey.

Greenpeace USA Carbon Report

New Greenpeace report exposes how coal and oil companies are trying to use forest offset projects to cheat the climate.

| Climate Change Headlines  |
|---|
| U.N. Forecasts Less Than 1 Bln Kyoto Offsets By 2012 Source: Reuters - A United Nations agency on Wednesday cut its forecast for pre-2012 Kyoto Protocol carbon offsets, estimating for the first time that less than 1 billion tonnes will come to market before the climate pact expires.   |
| JA welcomes Spanish donation to Adaptation Fund Source: Jamaica Observer - JAMAICA has welcomed news of Spain's euro 45-million contribution to the Adaptation Fund, from which developing countries are to benefit in their efforts to fortify themselves against the ill effects of climate change.                                 |
| Japan, Germany, Denmark ready to cooperate with Belarus under Kyoto Protocol Source: BeITA - Japan, Germany and Denmark are ready to cooperate with Belarus within the framework of the Kyoto Protocol, Alexander Grebenkov, national coordinator-expert of the Support to the Kyoto Protocol Implementation project, told reporters. |
| Kenya Turns to Carbon Trade in a Bid to Curb Climate Change Source: Newstime Africa - Kenyan Prime Minister Raila Odinga has said the country is keen to partner with investment bankers to promote trading in carbon markets and ensure the rehabilitation of the Mau and other threatened forests in the country.                   |
| How China and India Sabotaged the UN Climate Summit Source: Spiegel - What really went on at the UN climate conference in Copenhagen? Secret recordings obtained by SPIEGEL reveal how China and India prevented an agreement on tackling climate change at the crucial meeting.  |
| RSSbox powered by rssinclude.com  |

Brazil: The Money Tree

[In the new economy created by global warming, forests are becoming a valuable commodity. Promising not to cut them down is one of the most popular ways companies would like to offset emissions. \[READ MORE »\]\(#\)](#)

ARCHIVES

BY COUNTRY

BY THEME

BY DATE

Carbon Watch Winner of People's Voice Webby Award

FRONTLINE/World
We are happy to announce that thanks to all of you "Carbon Watch" has been voted the winner for Best News & Politics Series in the 14th Annual Webby People's Voice Awards.

READ MORE »

Miscounting Carbon

FRONTLINE/World
The suspension of one of the U.N.'s offset "validators" highlights the treacherous nature of measuring the veracity of carbon offsets. READ MORE »

The New Deal Makers of the Amazon

FRONTLINE/World
A growing cadre of carbon developers are scouring the Amazon looking to buy forest credits. But who, exactly, do you pay? READ MORE »

False Profits

FRONTLINE/World
Corporations must account for environmental impact says SEC, and prepare to pay says new report. READ MORE »

Conservation projects displace locals

Marketplace
Part 2 of Michael Montgomery's story for Marketplace, this time about the effects on the ground when U.S. companies try to offset their emissions by preserving forests in Southern Brazil. READ MORE »

Calculating the Value of Carbon in Trees

Marketplace
Michael Montgomery and Mark Schapiro report for Marketplace on the effort to slow deforestation by changing the economics of the forest, making a forest preserved more valuable than one being clear-cut. READ MORE »

Cap and Trade and the New Carbon Economy

NPR
Listen to Mark Schapiro on Fresh

What Happened to U.S. Climate Policy?

FRONTLINE/World
Rolling Stone's Jeff Goodell reports on Obama's rough ride to Copenhagen and

Air talking about the cap and trade system, its development in Europe, and how big financial houses are gearing up to profit. READ MORE »

those behind "one of the most aggressive lobbying campaigns in history to block progress on global warming." READ MORE »

MORE STORIES ON CLIMATE CHANGE

Marketplace: Clearing the Air on Carbon Credits

Listen to Mark Schapiro's interview on Marketplace, where he talks about his current Harper's Magazine cover story, "Conning the Climate: Inside the Carbon-trading Shell Game." READ MORE »

U.S. and U.K. Tangle Over Airline Emission Limits

Britain is the first European country to start enacting EU measures to cap airline emissions, causing several major U.S. carriers to respond: "See you in court." READ MORE »

GM's Money Trees

Read Mark Schapiro's companion story in the November/December issue of Mother Jones on the difficulties of turning a tree into a carbon offset. READ MORE »

Climate Change Experts Weigh In

Read what economists, lawmakers, energy executives and others say about the global challenge to reduce carbon emissions. READ MORE »

Heat

Correspondent Martin Smith has covered the breakup of the Soviet Union and the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan. But nothing, he says, matches reporting on climate change for its scope and severity. Watch his 2-hour FRONTLINE special. READ MORE »

More In U.S. Skeptical About Global Warming

More Americans this year than last believe there is no solid evidence that global temperatures are rising, according to a new survey by the Pew Research Center. READ MORE »

Tuvalu: That Sinking Feeling

Climate change experts predict that over the next 100 years the sea level, on average, will rise between six inches and three feet. How are these predictions already affecting the tiny Pacific island of Tuvalu? READ MORE »

Hot Politics

In this joint report from 2007, FRONTLINE and the Center for Investigative Reporting examine the politics and manipulation behind the Bush administration's inaction on climate change. READ MORE »

Trading Trees

One issue that showed promise of reaching a consensus in Copenhagen is the preservation of the world's remaining forests. The issue has long been debated in a U.N. program called REDD, Reducing Emissions from Deforestation and Forest Degradation. At the center of forest... READ MORE »

Copenhagen Q & A

We asked you to send in your questions on climate change for our reporter Mark Schapiro while he was in Copenhagen covering the talks. Many of you did, sending them via webcam, email and from the summit itself. READ MORE »

ARCHIVES

BY COUNTRY

BY THEME

BY DATE

HOME • STORIES • REACT • WATCH • ABOUT • EDUCATORS • DISPATCHES • NEWSLETTER • CONTACT US • FRONTLINE

Privacy Policy • © 2002-2010 WGBH Educational Foundation. All Rights Reserved.