

TERM: ball lightning

DEFINITION:

A relatively rare form of lightning, consisting of a reddish, luminous ball, of the order of one foot in diameter, which may move rapidly along solid objects or remain floating in midair. Hissing noises emanate from such balls, and they sometimes explode noisily but may also appear noiselessly.

HIERARCHY:

- electric current
- . electric discharges
- . . lightning
- . . . ball lightning

RELATED TERMS:

- atmospheric electricity